PASTOR'S MESSAGE

A bright and cheery face popped into the office today and announced, "Happy first day of fall". This surprised me for a couple of reasons. First, it did not seem like it should be fall yet, even the first day. It is always surprising how quickly time goes. Second, it was such a nice day I was not thinking about it being fall. Fall in the UP can be very cold and snowy. Winter may officially arrive in late December, but that does not stop the cold and snow from arriving in the UP sooner. Once I was over the surprise of it being the first day of fall, my mind - Started reminiscing.

When Melissa and I first came to the UP to look at the area and meet with the PNC (Pastor Nominating Committee) it was mid October. While driving here both of us were impressed by the beauty of Michigan and in particular the trees. The leaves on the trees were changing colors and it was just beautiful. Fall in the UP is indeed a beautiful season. We are constantly surrounded by such beauty in our world. It reminds me of the beginning of Psalm 24, "(Psa 24:1-6 NIV) Of David. A psalm. The earth is the Lord's, and everything in it, the world, and all who live in it; {2} for he founded it upon the seas and established it upon the waters. {3} Who may ascend the hill of the LORD? Who may stand in his holy place? {4} He who has clean hands and a pure heart, who does not lift up his soul to an idol or swear by what is false. {5} He will receive blessing from the LORD and vindication from God his Savior. {6} Such is the generation of those who seek him, who seek your face, O God of Jacob. Selah"

As David looked at the beauty of the world, it reminded him of God. It reminded him of the love and mercy of God. The beauty of the world moved David to seek God. The beauty of the world inspired David to want to follow God's commandments and laws. Beauty helped keep David's eyes open to the presence of God in his life. In this season of beauty, will we take a few moments to bear witness to the beauty of our world? If we do, how will it inspire us? The wise have always seen the beauty of the world as a reminder of God.

Peace in Christ,
Mark

How beautifully leaves grow old," wrote 19th-century essayist John Burroughs. "How full of light and color are their last days."

Society doesn't think highly of old age. Beauty products tout the supposed virtues of maintaining a youthful appearance. Older adults' wisdom, born of much life experience, is often disparaged, ignored or not sought. But God says this about the righteous, whose lives are rooted in him: "In old age they still produce fruit; they are always green and full of sap, showing that the LORD is upright" (Psalm 92:14-15, RSV).

The aging leaves of autumn can prompt us to look for beauty in the seniors among us, to notice the light and color that still abound. From all the fruit they still produce – service, prayer, love – may we learn about living faithfully until our own last days.

Fall has officially arrived and there is a nip in the air. The Deacons will begin collecting winter coats and clothing this month. Our mitten tree will be ready for hats, gloves and scarves on November 15th. We continue our mission to feed those in need and gratefully appreciate your continued support and donations. Keep us in mind in December. The Cookie Walk will be back to raise funds for food. Thank you again for your thoughts, prayers, donations, and time. As Micah 6:8 concludes, "To act justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God".

The Sandpiper

is a true story written by Robert Peterson, happening over 25 years ago, and it changed his life forever.

This story serves as a reminder to all of us, that we have to take time to enjoy living as well as life with your neighbor and friends. The hustle and bustle of life can make us lose sight of what is truly important in our relationships with one another.

The Sandpiper

She was six years old when I first met her on the beach where I live. I drive to this beach, a distance of three or four miles, whenever the world begins to close in on me. She was building a sand castle or something and looked up, her eyes as blue as the sea. "Hello" she said. I answered with a nod, not really in the mood to bother with a small child. "I'm building," she said. "I see that. What is it?" I asked, not really caring. "Oh, I don't know, I just like the feel of the sand." That sounds good, I thought, and slipped off my shoes.

A Sandpiper glided by. "That's a joy," the child said. "It's a what?" "It's a joy. My mama says sandpipers come to bring us joy." The bird went gliding down the beach. Good bye joy, I muttered to myself, hello pain, and turned to walk on. I was depressed; my life seemed completely out of balance. "What's your name?" She wouldn't give up. "Robert" I answered. "I'm Robert Peterson." "Mine is Wendy...I'm six." "Hi, Wendy." She giggled, "You're funny," she said. In spite of my gloom, I laughed too and walked on. Her musical giggle followed me. "Come again Mr. P," she called. "We'll have another happy day."

The next few days consisted of a group of unruly Boy Scouts, PTA meetings, and my ailing mother. The sun was shining one morning as I took my hands out of the dishwasher. I need a sandpiper, I said to myself, gathering up my coat.

Every once in a while, amongst the jokes received via our computer, a story or two touches my heart and I feel as though I should share it with you. This

The ever-changing balm of the seashore awaited me. The breeze was chilly but I strode along, trying to recapture the serenity, I needed. "Hello, Mr. P" she said. "Do you want to play?" "What did you have in mind?" I asked, with a twinge of annoyance. "I don't know. You say." "How about charades?" I asked sarcastically. The tinkling laughter burst forth again. "I don't know what that is." "Then let's just walk." Looking at her, I noticed the delicate fairness of her face. "Where do you live?" I asked. "Over there." She pointed toward a row of summer cottages. Strange, I thought, in winter. "Where do you go to school?" "I don't go to school. Mommy says we are on vacation." She chattered little girl talk as we strolled up the beach, but my mind was on other things. When I left for home, Wendy said it had been a happy day. Feeling surprisingly better, I smiled at her and agreed.

Three weeks later, I rushed to my beach in a state of near panic. I was in no mood to even greet Wendy. I thought I saw her mother on the porch and felt like demanding she keep her child at home. "Look, if you don't mind," I said crossly when Wendy caught up with me, "I'd rather be alone today." She seemed unusually pale and out of breath. "Why?" she asked. I turned to her and shouted, "Because my mother died!" and thought, My God, why was I saying this to a little child? "Oh," she said quietly, "then this is a bad day." "Yes," I said, "and yesterday and the day before and -oh go away!" "Did it hurt?" she inquired. "Did what hurt?" I was exasperated with her, with myself. "When she died?" "Of course it hurt!" I snapped, misunderstanding, wrapped up in myself. I strode off.

A month or so after that, when I next went to the beach she wasn't there. Feeling guilty, ashamed, and admitting to myself I missed her, I went up to the cottage after my walk and knocked at the door. A drawn looking young woman with honey-colored hair opened the door. "Hello," I said, "I'm Robert Peterson. I missed your little girl today and wondered where she was." "Oh yes, Mr. Peterson, please come in. Wendy spoke of you so much. I'm afraid I allowed her to bother you. If she was a nuisance, please accept my apologies." "Wendy died last week, Mr. Peterson. She had leukemia. Maybe she didn't tell you."

Struck dumb, I groped for a chair...I had to catch my breath. "She loved this beach so much, so when she asked to come, we couldn't say no. She seemed so much better here and had a lot of what she called happy days. But the last few weeks, she declined rapidly..." Her voice faltered, “She left something for you, if only I can find it. Could you wait a moment while I look?”

I nodded stupidly, my mind racing for something to say to this lovely young woman. She handed me a smeared envelope with “Mr. P” printed in bold childish letters. Inside was a drawing in bright crayon hues—a yellow beach, a blue sea, and a brown bird. Underneath was carefully printed:

A Sandpiper to Bring You Joy

Tears welled up in my eyes, and a heart that had almost forgotten to love, opened wide. I took Wendy’s mother in my arms. “I’m so sorry, I’m so sorry, I’m so sorry,” I uttered over and over, and we wept together. The precious little picture is framed now and hangs in my study. Six words – one for each year of her life – that speak to me of harmony, courage, and undemanding love. A gift from a child with sea blue eyes and hair the color of sand – who taught me the gift of love.

This week, be sure to give your loved ones an extra hug, and by all means, take a moment....even if it is only for ten seconds, to stop and smell the roses.

Plans are in place, Committees have been chosen, and our decoration lady, Jenna Carachio, has beautiful plans. She has started with two work bees with our ladies. Volunteers and various items are needed to make this year's bazaar a wonderful success! The funds raised help with our mission work. What can you help with?

SOCIAL HALL DECORATIONS:

We will again have trees, wreaths or any type of decorations to go along with the theme. Trees are available to decorate, if you or a group are able please let Diane McMeeken know or leave a message in the Church Office. Trees can be green or white and decorated in white with accents of colors relating to the frozen theme if possible.

BAKE BOOTH:

Please remember the bake booth. We would appreciate cakes, loaves, preserves, pies, pickles, jams, candy and cookies. Be thinking of what you can do for this booth.

KNIT-KRAFT-KITCHEN:

Please try to help this combination booth to fill the tables with your creative knitting, crafts, sewing, and crocheting.

GRAMMA'S ATTIC:

Space in the Library is limited. We would like one or two special items from each Church family. These can be gently used:

Personal items: Purses, scarves hats, or jewelry.

Household items: China, crystal, wall hangings, or plates.

Christmas items: Decorations, sweaters, or vests.

Books: Hard cover or paperbacks.

RAFFLE TABLE:

Please consider an item for our table. In the past we have received many beautiful handmade articles as well as items ranging from brand new to gently used and unique.

Drop off times for Bazaar items will be Thursday and Friday from 9 am to 4 pm and Saturday in the morning (AM). Please designate the booth where the items belong when dropping off (ex: Raffle Table, Grammas' Attic, etc).

A simmering idea

During a lesson on 1 Kings 18, a Sunday school teacher explained the confrontation between the prophet Elijah and the false prophets of Baal. He described how Elijah built the altar, placed wood on it, prepared the bull, laid it on the altar and instructed God's people to pour water over the altar.

"Now," the teacher asked, "can anyone tell me why they would've poured water over the animal?"

A girl eagerly raised her hand and answered, "To make the gravy!"

Meeting needs

The Bible emphasizes the importance of giving to people in need. In Matthew 6:1-4, Jesus describes the proper attitude for giving.

Directions: Starting at the *B and going counterclockwise, write every other letter on the lines below. Continue until you've completed Matthew 6:3, NIV.

"B _____

_____ g."

MATTHEW 6:3, NIV

Answer: "But when you give to the needy, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing." Matthew 6:3, NIV

BLESSING BAGS

Make these practical gifts to share blessings with homeless people and others in need.

What you need:

- Gallon-size zippered baggies
- Clothing (socks, mittens, scarves, rain ponchos)
- Travel-size toiletries (toothpaste, toothbrush, deodorant, sunscreen, lip balm, lotion, tissues, bandages)
- Snacks
- Water bottles

- Pencil

What you do:

1. Pack baggies with supplies listed above (and more, if desired).
2. Write encouraging notes (including Bible verses), and add them to the baggies.
